GENEALOGICAL NOTES

RELATING TO THE FAMILIES OF

Lloyd, Pemberton, Hutchinson, Hudson and Parke.

PREFACE.

The following genealogical notes, relating chiefly to the families of Lloyd, Pemberton, Hutchinson, Hudson and Parke were first compiled, in July, 1849, by James P. Parke, and copied and added to, in 1877, by Townsend Ward, now deceased, then Librarian of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania. The sources of genealogical information at that time open to the student of family history, as compared with the present day, were insignificant, and it is a matter of surprise that with such scant material at hand so valuable a record was made.

Mr. Ward states in his preface that the information regarding the Lloyd family was "mostly from a document sent by Francis Lloyd of Birmingham [England], on September 29, 1826, to Joseph P. Norris, of Philadelphia, and which it is said was compiled from authentic records by Charles Lloyd the second [of Dolobran], dated 1670."

The other data were gathered in much the same way, by laborious research, from family archives.

Since 1877 vast numbers of records in England, Wales and Pennsylvania have been unearthed, transcribed and printed, and rare books, once obtainable only in England, have been placed on the shelves of the Historical Society, whilst the valuable collections of the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania have given us many church registers, and thrown open thousands of wills for inspection at our leisure. Many privately printed genealogies, also, have added to the mine of wealth for this study.

These sources of information have been utilized for the present work. Additions, in some instances, have been made to the lines as given by Mr. Ward, and in other cases, where portions of the lines inserted in the Parke-Ward manuscript have been found printed in works easily accessible to the public, they have sometimes been omitted, and in their place a reference given to the book or books in which they can be found.

This is particularly so with the Welsh and English descendants of the Lloyds of Dolobran, who are now so numerous that a volume might be written about them. By this system a brief but comprehensive genealogy, combined with a genealogical index, is presented of all the descendants of the families appearing on the title-page and some others, and space is saved for valuable information, not hitherto printed or at least readily accessible.

Great care has been exercised in comparing names and dates, where possible, with original documents, and all statements in the original manuscripts have been carefully considered.

The reader's attention, however, is called to the fact that authorities and original documents, frequently vary as to dates of births, marriages and deaths, and that transcribers and printers being human, are only capable of that degree of accuracy where the percentage of error does no harm. I have thought well to close this tiresome but necessary introductory note with the lines quoted by Mr. Ward in the preface to his original manuscript:

> "Like leaves on trees the race of man is found,
> Now green in youth, now withering on the ground.
> Another race the following Spring supplies;
> They fall successive; and successive rise;
> So generations in their course decay,
> So flourish these, when those are passed away."

PHILADELPHIA, February 1, 1898.

Lloyd of Dolobran.

1. Celynin, of Llwydiarth, the first of this race who settled in Montgomeryshire, fled there after having slain, in single combat, the Mayor of Caermarthen. His lineage from Aleth, "King," or Prince of Dyfed, is as follows: Aleth[1] had Uchdryd, who by Mared, daughter of Cadivor Vawr, Lord of Blaen Cych, had Gwrgeney, who by Ales, daughter of Goronwy ap Einion, had Ierwerth, who by Eva, daughter of Sir Aron ap Rees, had Cynddelw, who by Jane, daughter of Gorwareth, of Kemmes, had Ririd, who by Gwaldus,[2] daughter of Richard, Lord of Dinas Certhin, had the above Celynin.

It has been suggested that Celynin is probably identical with "Ceilne filio Cheugret" [i. e. Celynin, son of Ririd] who appears as one of the lay witnesses to the foundation

Arms of Einion ap Celynin (Sable, a he-goat, passant argent, attired or) impaling the Coat of Adam ap Meyrick (Sable, three nags' heads, erased, argent.)—From panel in pew of Meivod Church.

[1] Aleth bore Azure, a chevron between three cocks; Argent, which is a different coat from that used by his descendant, Celynin.

[2] (Lewis Dwnn, vol. ii, p. 277.) But this is not accordant with the Llwydiarth pedigree in Dwnn, vol. i, p. 294. There "Gwenllian, the daughter of Meredith ap Rhyddarch ap Tewdwr Mawr, is stated to be the wife of Celynin, and "Gwladys," to be his mother. It is said, however, in the Salisbury MSS. at Wynnstay, that Gwladys, the daughter of Ririd ap Cynwrig Efell, was the mother of Celynin, and not the wife. This would account for the possession of Llwydiarth.

charter of the Abbey of Ystrad Marchell, and although the charter itself was of a much earlier date, yet the time of execution of the testing clause, to which the name is appended, would correspond with Celynin's date.

How Celynin acquired Llwydiarth, from his mother or by marriage, is still a mooted question. The authority of the express statement of Lewis Dwnn that Celynin married "Gwladus v. aeres Ririd ap Cynwrig Evell ag a ga vas Llwydiarth Ymhowys "(and obtained Llwydiarth in Powys), can, we think, be safely relied upon ; and to reconcile it with the statement elsewhere, made by the same Herald, that Celynin married "Gwenllian v' Meredith ap Rhydderch ap Tewdwr Mawr," it may be assumed that he married twice: (1) Gwenllian and (2) Gwladys. Celynin, after his flight to Montgomeryshire, became steward to Charleton, Lord Powys. His eldest son and heir was:

II. Einion ap Celynin, of Llwydiarth. John de Charleton, Lord of Powys, granted unto this Einion, by the designation of "Anian ap Kelynnin," on the Thursday after the Decollation of St. John the Baptist, 14 Edward III. [1340], Weston in the Ville of Pennayrth, in Glas Meynoc. He married the daughter of Adda ap Meyric, Rector of Meifod,[1] a descendant of Brochwel Ysgythrog, and by her had a son who succeeded him, by name:

III. Llewelyn ap Einion, of Llwydiarth. He is mentioned in a grant dated 7 May, 7 Henry V., whereby Edward de Charleton, Lord Powys, pardoned his (Llewelyn's) grandson, Gryffith ap Jenkin ap Llewelyn for complicity in the rebellion of Owen Glendower. He married "Lleuca, the daughter of Griffith ap Eden" (Edneved), Lloid, styled "relicte dicti Llewelyn" in the above grant. They had three sons:

[1] The correctness of this statement has been questioned. See Monig. Coll., vol. xiv, p. 370, and the objections there raised answered in the same publication. Upon a careful examination of the facts in the case, there seems to be no good reason for questioning it.

1. Jenkin ap Llewelyn,[1] styled in the same above mentioned grant "Jenkin ap Llewelyn, filii predicti Llewelyn et Leuca patris Griffini," and ancestor of the Tal y Lyn branch, Merionethshire.

2. Ievan ap Llewelyn.

3. David ap Llewelyn, of Dolobran, of whom presently. Llewelyn gave to his son, David, Dolobran and Coedcowrid.

IV. David ap Llewelyn married twice; by his first wife, Mary, the daughter of Griffith Gôch, Esq., he had a son, Owen, who was ancestor of the Vaughans, of Glascoed, and whose second son was probably David ap Owen, Abbot of Ystrad Marchell, and afterwards Bishop of St. Asaph, who died about 1512, and whose monument was in the Cathedral of St. Asaph. David ap Llewelyn married for his second wife, Medisis, daughter of Griffith Deuddwr, Esq., of the Tribe of Brochwel Ysgythrog. He was succeeded by his eldest son:

V. Ievan Teg (or the Handsome), of Dolobran. He married Maud, daughter of Evan Blayney, of Castle Blayney in Ireland, and had a son:

[1] Jenkin ap Llewelyn ap Einion, of Llwydiarth, married Gwenevor, daughter of Ievan Gethin ap Madog Cyfin, and had: David ap Jenkin, who married Janet, daughter of Ievan Gôch ap Ievan Vaughan ap Ievan ap Iorwerth ap Adda, of Dolgôch, and had: Meredith ap David, who married Maud, daughter of Meredith ap Griffith Derwas, of Nannau (see pedigree of Rowland Ellis), and had: John ap Meredith, who married Gwenllian, daughter of Ednyvet ap David ap Howell ap Einion (possibly of the line of Ednowain ap Bradwen) and had: Hugh ap John, of Tal y Lyn (a parish in the hundred—or Comôt—of Estimaner, Merionethshire, about eight miles southwest of Dôlgelly) and had: Mary verch Hugh, who married David ap Howell, of Llwyngwrill, Merionethshire. Her mother was Catherine, daughter of Rhys ap David ap Ievan ap Jackws ap David ap Ievan. David ap Howell had Hugh ap David, who, by Catherine, of Abergynolwyn, had: Humphrey ap Hugh, of Llwyn-du, who, by Elizabeth, daughter of John Powel, of Llanwddyn, had: Owen Humphrey, of Llwyn-du, ancestor to the Humphreys, Owen, Ellis and other families of Pennsylvania.

[2] Some authorities give a second son, Ievan, who it is stated was ancestor of the Tal y Lyn family; but it is evident that a confusion between the names of Jenkin and Ievan has occurred.

VI. Owen, of Dolobran, who was the first of the family who took the surname of Lloyd, probably from Llwydiarth, the estate of his ancestor, Celynin. He married Katherine, the daughter of Reynalt, son of Sir Griffith Vaughan, Knight Banneret, of Agincourt, and had two sons and one daughter. They were:

1. Evan, of Dolobran, of whom presently.

2. David, of Rhosvawr.

3. Ellen, m. John Grey.

VII. Evan Lloyd, of Dolobran, the eldest son, married Gwenhwyvar, daughter of Meredith Lloyd, of Meivod, by whom he had:

1. David, of Dolobran, of whom presently.

2. John Wynn, of Dyffryn.

VIII. David Lloyd, of Dolobran (born 1523), the eldest son, appears under the name of "DD. Lloid ap Ieu'n (Evan) ap Owen, Gentleman," on Grand Juries, in the County of Montgomery, 34 Henry VIII. [A. D. 1542]. He married, first, Eva, daughter of Edward Price, of Eglusig, by whom he had no issue; and secondly, Eva, daughter of Evan David Gôch, son of Jenkin Vaughan, of Bodfach, by whom he had:

IX. David Lloyd, of Dolobran (born 1549). He appears in county Grand Juries in 8th, 19th, 20th, 23d and 25th of Elizabeth, and as "David ap DD. Lloyd, of Dolobran, Gentleman," in the 34th of Elizabeth. He married Ales, daughter of David Lloyd, of Llanarmon Mynydd Mawr, Esq., descended from Ririd Flaidd, Lord of Penllyn, and had a son:

X. John Lloyd, of Dolobran (born 1575), who married his cousin Katharine, the daughter and coheiress of Humphrey Wynn, of Dyffryn, son of the above named John Wynn, of Dyffryn, by his wife Margaret, daughter of Sir Roger Kynaston. "He kept his abode at Coedcowryd, and wainscoted the parlour thereof and lived there in great state, having twenty-four men with halberts to attend him to Meivod Church, and placed them in his great pew under the pulpit. He also bought Owen John Humphrey's estate in Meivod." He appears as "Johes Lloyd, gen.," on the county Grand Jury, 8 James I., and as "Johes Lloyd de Dolobran, gen." 20 James I., and as "Johes Lloyd, of Dolobran, Ar.," as a grand juror or magistrate in 2nd, 4th and 9th Charles I. He disappears from the list of Justices of the Peace 14 Charles I. He was succeeded by his son:

XI. Charles Lloyd (I.), of Dolobran (born 1613). He married Elizabeth Stanley, daughter of Thomas Stanley, of Knockin, in the County of Salop (son of Sir Edward Stanley, son of Sir Foulk Stanley, son of Sir Piers Stanley, son of Sir Rowland Stanley, brother of Lord Strange, of Knockin). "He lived at Dolobran Hall, and enlarged the same by adding to it the timber buildings on the north side thereof, making the said hall's platform to resemble the figure of a capital L."

There was previous to the year 1780 an oak panel over the fire-place of the old hall at Dolobran, upon which was emblazoned the shield of Charles Lloyd, of fifteen quarterings, impaling the Stanley arms with six quarterings in right of his wife, Elizabeth Stanley. This panel was removed by James Lloyd before he sold Dolobran Hall, and presented to his relative Charles Lloyd, from whom it came to the grandson of the latter, James Farmer Lloyd, of London, who now owns it. The paternal coat, as quartered on this shield, is that of Aleth, and not the one borne by Einion ap Celynin, given supra. Charles Lloyd was esteemed one of the most eminent genealogists and antiquarians of his time. He died in 1657, and his burial is thus entered in Meivod Register:

"BURIALS, 1657. } Charles Lloyd, Esq., of Dolobran, was buried 17 day of August."

His will was dated 17 June, 1641. He had three sons:

1. Charles, b. 9 Dec., 1637, of Dolobran; the Quaker; grad. Oxford, M.D.

2. John, of Jesus College, Oxford, grad. M.D.; clerk in Chancery.

3. Thomas, Dep. Gov. Penna., of whom presently.

The numbers used to designate the descendants of the families here mentioned, commence with the children of Thomas Lloyd and continue in regular order, except where new ancestors are introduced. In the latter cases, as with the Welsh genealogy of the Lloyds, the numbering has been omitted, as unnecessary, as the names are not repeated. An asterisk—thus *—after a marriage indicates that the line is continued on in its regular order.

XII. THOMAS LLOYD, third son of Charles Lloyd of Dolobran, Montgomeryshire, and Elizabeth his wife, born at Dolobran, April 17, 1640; died in Pennsylvania, Sept. 10, 1694. He married, first, Nov. 9, 1665, Mary, daughter of Colonel Roger (or Gilbert) Jones, of Welshpool, Governor of Dublin in reign of James II, who defeated the Marquis of Ormond, in Ireland, August, 1649 (?). She died 1682, and was the first person buried in Friends' Burial Ground, corner of Fourth and Mulberry Streets, Philadelphia. [D. Logan's MSS., 2, 218.]

He married, secondly, at New York, 1684, Patience Story, widow, but had no issue by her. She survived him. Thomas Lloyd joined Penn in the colonization of Pennsylvania 1681–2, and was Deputy Governor of the Province and President of the Council from 1684 to 1693. He had graduated from Jesus College, Oxford, and studied medicine.

Children of Thomas Lloyd and Mary, his first wife:

The Pemberton Family.

I. William Pemberton, who was born in the township of Aspull, Wigan Parish, Lancashire, England, circa 1580, is the first of this line concerning whom we have any reliable information. He was, probably, the son of William Pemberton, of Wigan, whose inventory was filed at Chester in 1602; but this is uncertain. Lower, in his Patronymica Britannica, states that the family name of Pemberton is derived from the chapelry of that name in the parish of Wigan, in the hundred of West Derby, Lancashire, and it is certain that Pembertons are found at a very early period as lords of the manor of Pemberton, in Wigan, within a few miles of Aspull. Of these early Pembertons it will suffice to mention Adam de Pemberton, who was living in the reign of Richard I., and whose son, Alan de Pemberton, 3 John, paid ten marks to have seisen of his lands in Pemberton, and for his relief, etc.

Others of the name at a later date were: Adam de Pemberton, Henry, son of Lawrence de Pemberton, Alan, the son of Aldich de Pemberton, and another Adam de Pemberton, who was living 34 Edward I.

The eldest branch of this line ended in co-heiresses, who acquired the estates, but descendants of younger sons continued in the neighborhood of Wigan. If the Register of the parish church of Aspull could be searched and the wills of various Pembertons examined, the pedigree, no doubt, could be carried much further back than that William with whom we begin the Pennsylvania line, and who was, doubtless, a descendant of those persons of the name who appear earlier in the history of Lancashire. Mr. Townsend Ward, on page 141 of his MS. Genealogy of the Lloyd, Pemberton, Hutchinson and Kirkbride Families, says:

"After much research, all the particulars respecting its [the Pemberton Family's] members that could be collected, are comprised in an account of the family in MS. by J. P. P.

See also Memoirs of Samuel Fothergill, by George Crosfield, page 160, and The Friend, Vol. xxi, pp. 46, 61, et seq."

The information here given is from the above sources, and from Friends' Miscellany, Vol. vii, p. 1; The Pemberton Family (of New England), by Walter K. Watkins, Boston, 1892, The "Pemberton Papers," in Historical Society of Pennsylvania, Vol. i, the publications of the Harleian Society, London and Public Records.

William Pemberton, named above as the first of this branch of the Pemberton family of whom we have any account, seems to have been a man of considerable estate. By "a lease for three lives," dated May 30, 1625, it appears that a messuage or cottage, and its "crofts or closures of land, gardains, pastures, feedings," etc., in Aspull, were let to him by Roger Hundly, during the lives of Ralph, Alice and Mary, his children and the survivors of them. Two years later, this lease was assigned by William to his son Ralph. William Pemberton married, Dec. 10, 1602, Ann ———, who died Dec. 23, 1642. He died at Aspull, Nov. 26, 1642.

Referring to the "Armorial Devices" of the Pembertons, Mr. Parke gives several coats of different families, as mentioned in Burke's General Armory. He also speaks of a seal used by John Pemberton, on a letter dated Woburn, March 16, 1789, viz.: Quarterly, first and fourth, Ar. a chevron vert between three buckets sa. Second and third, Ar. three dragons' heads erect, couped. CREST: A dragon's head erect, couped. MOTTO: Nec temere nec timide.

An ancient steel seal in the possession of Henry Pemberton, Esq., of Philadelphia, bears the following arms: Argent, a chevron sable (instead of vert) between three water bougets of the second, hooped and handled or. CREST: A dragon's head couped, proper.[1]

[1] It is curious to note that there was at least one other family of Pemberton in Pennsylvania, whose connection, if any, with the Pembertons under consideration does not appear. John Pemberton was born in Glasgow, Scotland, 1717, and his wife in Newton Clanebois, Ireland; they settled at Abington and were Friends. They had issue, several children, who are believed to have left descendants.

Children of William Pemberton and Ann, his wife:

394. Alice, d. in Aspull, Jan. 29, 1675.
395. Margery, d. 1670.
396. Ralph, b. Jan. 3, 1611; m. Margaret Seddon.*
397. Ellen, m., before Dec. 4, 1674, John Allred. She d. in England, Dec. (22?), 1684. They had issue: (1) Alice, (2) Phineas, (3) John, who m. and had issue, (4) Owen, b. 1674, (5) Theophilis, b. 1686, (6) Solomon, b. 1689, m. "Nothing further is known of these," says Mr. Parke.

(396) Ralph Pemberton, son of William and Ann, born in the township of Aspull, Wigan Parish, County of Lancaster, Jan. 3, 1611; died in Pennsylvania, in the American Plantations, July 17, 1687. He was a malster, and a man of considerable property. He seems to have been well thought of, and trusted in Aspull and its neighborhood.

In 1673, he was living at Boulton in the Moors, Wigan, and in that year and in 1674 he rendered an account of money distributed to the poor (Friends?) of Aspull.

Ralph Pemberton married, June 7, 1648, Margaret, daughter of Thomas Seddon, of Warrington. She died Sept. 2, 1655. The Seddon family is an old one in Wigan, and in the neighboring parishes of Leigh and Rochdale, and the Seddons of Seddon Hall were noted non-conformists.

Ralph Pemberton accompanied his son, Phineas, to Pennsylvania in 1682. (See Phineas Pemberton.)

Children of Ralph Pemberton and Margaret, his wife:

398. Phineas, b. Jan. 30, 1650; m. (1st) Phebe Harrison; (2d), Alice Hodgson.*
399. Joseph, b. April 12, 1652; d. Aug. 3, 1655;
Probably other children died infants.

(398) Phineas Pemberton, son of Ralph and Margaret, born Jan. 30, 1650; died in Pennsylvania, Mar. 1, 1702. With his father, Ralph, and family, he embarked for Pennsylvania in the ship "Submission," from Liverpool, 5th of 7 mo., 1682, and arrived at the Choptank, Maryland, 2d of 9 mo., 1682, thus making the voyage in fifty-eight days from port to port. (See Publications of the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania, No. 1, Vol. i, page 7. He married (1st), Jan. 1, 1677, Phebe, daughter of James Harrison, of Stiall-Green, Cheshire, by Anne Heath, his wife, whom he married 5 of 1 mo, 1655. James Harrison was son of Immanuel, or Emanuel, Harrison, who died Aug. 8, 1658, and Agnes, his wife. They had issue: Anne, James, above mentioned, Robert, Jane, who is said to have married William Yardley, Mary, who married Joseph Endon, and had issue: (Mary, m. John Clark, Margaret, m. John Walker), Margery.

James Harrison, who died Oct. 6, 1687, married, as stated, Anne Heath, who was born Feb. 13, 1624, and died Mar. 5, 1690. They had Phebe, born April 7, 1660, who, as we have seen, married Phineas Pemberton, and died Oct. 30, 1696; Job, born June 20, 1662; died an infant, before 1665, and some others who all died before 1665. James Harrison and Agnes Harrison, his mother, came on the "Submission," 1682.

Phineas Pemberton married (2d), May 18, 1699, Alice, daughter of Robert Hodgson of Burlington, N. J., by whom he had no children. She married (2d), 1704, Thomas Bradford, had issue, and died Aug. 28, 1711.

The other children of Robert Hodgson were: Robert, married 1697, Sarah ———, and had issue (Robert, Elizabeth and Marcus), Mary and a daughter who married ——— Cook.

Phineas Pemberton, as well as his father and kinsmen, was a member of the Society of Friends and was frequently imprisoned and fined. A full account of their sufferings in England will be found in the books and MSS. above referred to. The Pembertons settled in Bucks County. Both the Pembertons and Harrisons held considerable land in that County. James Harrison's purchase was 5,000 acres. (Penna. Archives, 2d Series, XIX, page 88, etc.) Phineas

Pemberton was a member of the Assembly from Bucks County for several terms and was chosen speaker in 1698. He was also Deputy Register of Wills for the same County, and "Thomas" Pemberton, mentioned as a Deputy Surveyor, may be a misprint for Phineas. (See Penna. Arch., 2, XIX.)

The Hudson Family.

I. William Hudson, born about 1635–40, died at York City, Yorkshire, England, 2 mo. 14, 1713, married (1st) Mary ———, who died at York 9 mo. 11, 1681, buried 13th; (2d) Susannah Morley, at Selby, Yorkshire, 5 mo. 10, 1684; she died 5 mo. 14, 1700; (3d) Jane Waite, at Four Water Lane, York, 5 mo. 8, 1703, who died 12 mo. 27, 1704–5. William Hudson was a wealthy merchant and tanner in York, holding considerable property there and was also possessed of certain lands and tenements at Reedness, a township in Whitgift parish, West Riding Yorkshire, and at Fockerby or Fogerby, a township in the parish of Adlingfleet. William Hudson early attached himself to the Society of Friends. On the 8th of 11 mo., 1673, he was committed to York Castle by a writ de excommunicato capiendo, after prosecution by the Ecclesiastical Court, for refusing to pay an assessment for repairing the "Steeple House," where he remained for several years. It also appears that he travelled throughout England as a minister among Friends, and not unfrequently involved himself in serious difficulties with the authorities on that account. He lies buried in the Friends' Ground at York.

Children of William Hudson and Mary, his wife:

The Parke Family.

Several of this family removed to America in 1724, and settled in Chester County, Pennsylvania. They had then become members of the Society of Friends. Mr. Ward says:

"All the particulars respecting this family, that could be gathered, are comprised in 'A Short Account of the Parke Family,' by J. P. P., June 19, 1824. Efforts were made, when at Downingtown, in the years 1808, 1814, and 1825, to add particulars to the genealogy, but as these were chiefly obtained from the recollections of Jane Parke, they may not be depended on as entirely accurate." Henry Drinker Biddle, in "a short account of the Parke Family," page 39 et seq., writes: "Thomas Parke, a member of the Society of Friends, then in Ireland as a resident,—but whether his progenitors had come from England is uncertain. He appears, probably, to have been a farmer, and in the year 1720 owned some land in Ballilean, Ballanghmore, and Coolisnactah." "All of the family excepting Mary, the first, and Susanna, the third child, on May (sic!) 21, 1724, embarked at Dublin on the ship 'Sizarah' of Whitehaven, Jeremiah Cowman, commander, bound to Whitehaven and thence to Philadelphia." They arrived in Delaware Bay, 21 Aug., (sic!) 1724; lived for a time in Chester and then removed to Chester county, Thomas Parke having purchased a farm of 500 acres in East Caln Township, Dec. 30, 1725, There is said to have been a grant of arms to this family by Sir William Segar, Garter King at Arms, 1618, viz: Sable, on a fesses engrailed ar., between three hinds trippant or as many torteaux, each charged with a pheon of the second. Crest: On a mount vert, paled in ar. a fox paly of four, or and ar. Motto: Providentiæ me committo.

The MS. of Townsend Ward continues the Parke lines briefly, and the families of Poultney, Williams, Edge, Evans, Mason, McConnell, Powell, Biddle, Cowpland, Lownes, Webb, etc., more fully. As fairly complete genealogies of these lines have been printed, it is thought unnecessary to continue the Parke Genealogy beyond the point of connection with the Pemberton family. See Biddle and Park families by Henry Drinker Biddle, Keith's Provincial Councillors of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Thomas Wynne, born, according to some accounts, near Caerwys, Flintshire, North Wales, circa 1630; died in Pennsylvania, 1 mo., 1692. Kirkbride.—The MS. of Parke and Ward gives no account of this family, although it is included in the title-page. As a fairly full genealogy of the Kirkbrides is given in Family Portraiture, and in Bordentown and Environs, and the histories of Bucks County, a detailed history of that family is omitted from this work. A pedigree of the Staceye Family, from which a branch of the Kirkbrides is descended, may be found in the History of Hallamshire (England) and also in the genealogical department of the Literary Era, for February, 1898.
